

POL351 Comparative Politics in Southeast Asia

Level: 3

Credit Units: 5 Credit Units

Language: ENGLISH

Presentation Pattern: EVERY JAN

Synopsis:

The course locates students within the geographical and political context of Southeast Asia. It covers the government and politics of the major countries in the region like Indonesia, Malaysia, and Singapore. After this course, students will be able to do a comparison of the structures of government and identify where the processes of governance differ from country to country. This will give them a better appreciation of the complexities within the region and would greatly benefit those who travel regionally for work.

Topics:

- Revisiting the foundations of comparative politics: The Comparative Method
- Methodological considerations for political scientists
- Political Systems of Southeast Asia (1): Indonesia & Malaysia
- Political Systems of Southeast Asia (2): Thailand & Philippines
- Political Systems of Southeast Asia (3): Countries in ASEAN
- The Political Economy of Southeast Asia
- Democratic Regimes in Southeast Asia
- Non-democratic Regimes in Southeast Asia
- Ethnic and National Identity in Southeast Asia
- Religion and Fundamentalism in Southeast Asia
- Globalisation and Change in Southeast Asia

Textbooks:

POL351 Study Guide (UDC - SUSS)

ISBN-13: SG-1765

Theory and Methods in Political Science 2010 Palgrave Macmillan

ISBN-13: 9780230576261

POL351 Contemporary Southeast Asia, Beeson, Mark (2009), pp. 46-73, 143-156, 157-174, 192-206

ISBN-13: 9780230202917

Learning Outcome:

- Show knowledge of the key tenets of sub-field of comparative politics.
- Examine the theoretical foundations of comparative politics within the region studied.
- Appraise the methodological limitations present in the study of comparative politics in the region.
- Compare and contrast the major political institutions and regimes present within the region utilizing the methods taught.
- Apply the various approaches of comparative politics to the countries being studied.
- Discuss comparative politics of this region as reflections of historical epochs, demography, culture and social forces.
- Develop an informed view of regional politics and be able to discuss their developments.

Assessment Strategies - Regular Semester (Evening Class):

Components	Description	Weightage Allocation (%)
Overall Continuous Assessment	GROUP BASED ASSIGNMENT 1	20
	TUTOR-MARKED ASSIGNMENT 1	20
	PARTICIPATION 1	10
Overall Examinable Components	ECA	50
Total		100

*The information listed is subject to review and change.